As every year Muhammad Medical College organizes Annual Medical Symposium for the betterment of students in the field of research and technology. So once again MMC has organized Annual medical Symposium that has been commendable and well organized as every year. The huge range of students participated from first to final years the majority participation was from final and fourth years of students with great zeal. Student led activity is an advanced form of Medical Education. Opportunities to enhance such activities are scarce in Pakistan. This devoid intelligent and able students of chance to grow and show their talents.

Muhammad Medical College is acutely aware of this problem. This is why it places due importance to initial and advanced medical education. Once the students are advanced enough, it allows them to take part in educational activities as teachers and researchers for their training.

As part of promoting students to grow into future doctors and medical educationists, MMC organizes several formal and informal activities every year. This year also, MMC organized a 3 days annual medical Symposium at Auditorium Hall.
